TODAY'S SONG

America, the Beautiful

O beautiful for spacious skies,
For amber waves of grain.
For purple mountain majesties
Above the fruited plain.
America! America! God shed His grace on thee,
And crown they good with brotherhood
from sea to shining sea.

NOTES & ANNOUNCEMENTS

Taste of Tupelo now a biz expo happens Tuesday

The Taste of Tupelo is now a business expo. Formerly an invitation-only event for CDF members, the Taste of Tupelo Business Expo has extended it's hours and is now open to the public. North Mississippi's only business expo features the services and products of local businesses, accompanied by free samples from the area's top restaurants, caterers, and bakeries. The event will be held Tuesday, Nov. 5, from 5-8 p.m. at the BancorpSouth Arena.

Tickets are $5 and are available for guests 21 and older. Pre-event ticket purchase is recommended at www.cdfms.org or call CDF at 842-4521.

ROTARY NEWS

Rotary, Mercy Ships fight disease in Guinea

KATE NOLAN | THE ROTARIAN

A team of health professionals is touring Donka hospital in Conakry, Guinea, in March when they spot more than a dozen large, greenish masses covering the ground. To the U.S. team members, they look like an art installation; in fact, they are hospital gowns and surgical drapes, laundered and spread out to dry. They are a vivid example of the group's objective: to lower deadly infection rates caused by unsterile procedures.

This Rotary Foundation vocational training team is the first to serve under Rotary's partnership with the nonprofit Mercy Ships. Rotary District 7690 in North Carolina, USA, sponsored the team with a packaged grant, part of the new Rotary grant model that launched worldwide 1 July. The team's five members will train Guinean health professionals at the two national hospitals.

The Africa Mercy, a 500-foot oceangoing hospital ship, is docked in Conakry for a 10-month medical mission. The Mercy Ships staff and visiting experts, such as this team, will tackle a range of tasks, including setting up medical and dental clinics, conducting health screenings, performing surgeries on board, and conducting health care outreach throughout the country. The ship also will serve as a steel-hulled security blanket.

'Sustainable impact'

"Mercy Ships looks for ways to continue helping local medical professionals after the ship leaves port," says Michelle Bullington, who helped advise the team. "Improving sterilization techniques would have a sustainable impact."

Rick Snider, former governor of District 7690, worked on a Mercy Ships vessel for five years with his wife, Linda, and coordinated the Guinea project. He recruited assistant governor Jenny Braswell as team leader. A recently retired public health official, Braswell has volunteered on numerous Rotary projects in rural Nicaragua and Jamaica. Her husband, Sherrill, a physician, became her first recruit for the Guinea team.

In Guinea, the team visits Donka hospital, where toilets are flushed with water from a pail, and power outages are common.

"The staff members touch patients without gloves, going patient to patient without washing hands. There are unbandaged wounds, flies and roaches, open sewage right outside a patient facility and no sterile barriers," says Sherrill Braswell, adding an observation that he later repeats so often it sounds like a campaign slogan: "They are doing the best they can with what they have."

TODAY'S PROGRAM

Leslie Scruggs

Border collie trainer

Leslie Scruggs of Starkville trains border collies that can be used to herd cattle, sheep, poultry or even small children on occasion. Border collies also are used frequently in shows and trial activities. In a news release from Mississippi State University from a few years ago, Scruggs talked about border collies and their training:

"More people use them for working than for shows or trials," Scruggs said. "They are ideal for dairy cattle that have to be brought to a barn twice a day for milking. A farmer can just send the dog, and it will know exactly what to do without supervision."

Border collies earned their reputations as sheep dogs by bringing lambs into protected areas at night where predators such as coyotes and wild dogs could not encroach.

"Just because a dog is a border collie does not mean it will necessarily be a good herd dog. You should look at the dog's bloodline, especially its mother, to see if it could be a good herder," Scruggs said. "Some are better for show or just as pets than for working."

Scruggs will be demonstrating with a border collie and sheep at today's Rotary Club meeting. Outside, not inside. :)
